LETTER TO THE EDITOR

BACK TO SCHOOL NA!

Dear Editor,

Now that it's back to school season, all the more that we residents need to adhere to safety precautions against coronavirus disease (COVID-19). A lot of people have become complacent just because the leaders and the authorities have been competent in their decisions against the disease but they don't realize that they are the biggest contributor to the success of the UAE's fight against the virus. I speak for many when I say that it is time we set aside what's convenient and comfortable for our children. I am thankful that the schools are doing everything they can to ensure that they provide a safe environment for the students. But at the same time, I know that I also have to do my part to ensure that nothing bad happens to them especially during this period.

UAE's new vaccination policy ensures no one is left behind

VICE PRESIDENT, PRIME MINISTER AND RULER OF DUBAI
HE SHEIKH MOHAMMED BIN RASHID AL MAKTOUM

His Highness Sheikh Mohammed bin Rashid Al Maktoum, Vice President, Prime Minister and Ruler of Dubai approved the new legislation that will reduce risks of contracting communicable diseases that stem from viruses through a comprehensive framework that covers all sectors of the public.

The policy provides a framework that optimizes the coordination of the health sector workers in the field of immunization by following the world's standards in safety practices.

It would also promote a healthier lifestyle among the community and bring together the non-governmental sector to provide sustainable and top quality vaccination for the public with awareness drives that stress importance of vaccination for people of all ages.

HISTORICAL VACCINATION ACHIEVEMENTS

Prior to the launch of the National Policy on Vaccination, the UAE has proactively been engaging the public on vaccination initiatives particularly on diseases such as hepatitis, measles, tetanus, polio, seasonal influenza, and more for children, the elderly and adults with increased risks.

The Department of Health in Abu Dhabi (DoH) said that the UAE's rate for infectious diseases dropped dramatically in 1980 with the launch of the National Immunization Program that promotes vaccination for children under 2 years of age. The UAE was also declared polio-free in 2004 along with a dramatic decrease on the incidence of measles, mumps, rubella and pertussis cases.

In the fight against COVID-19, the UAE is leading the world with the launch of the first-ever Phase III inactivated vaccine trials for the coronavirus disease (COVID-19), reaching more than double its intended volunteers with a total of 31,000 participants from over 120 nationalities within a one-month period from July to August.

"This achievement would not have been possible without the support of our wise leadership and its continuous support of scientific research in the healthcare sector. This indeed is an accomplishment in the field of healthcare and will

His Excellency Abdul Rahman bin Mohammed Al Owais, Minister of Health and Prevention (MOHAP) and Minister of State for Federal National Council Affairs, stated that

UAE marked another milestone in the field of healthcare with the national immunization policy. The minister affirmed that this is an important part of the country's preventive health roadmap that will equip the UAE to counter communicable diseases that the world may encounter in the future.

The introduction of the policy will also help the country plan and draft related policies that will link

OFW volunteer shares UAE's COVID-19 vaccine trial journey

By Jamille Domingo

Another UAE-based Filipino has shared her experience as one of the volunteers for the Phase 3 of the clinical trial for the coronavirus disease (COVID-19) inactivated vaccine in the UAE.

Gara Lajara, a 33-year-old assistant teacher in Abu Dhabi, said that she has decided to take part in the clinical trial because she believes in the efficacy of the vaccine in keeping her and her students safe.

"I want to make sure that I am protected from the virus and I want my students to be in safe hands. Also, this is my contribution to the safety of the community," she said.

She also said that she is confident about the UAE's initiative against COVID-19, from the strict measures down to this vaccine mission.

"I feel safe and protected living in this country. The UAE government has taken strict measures and precautions against COVID-19 to protect all the residents," noted Lajara.

Lajara said that when she arrived at ADNEC for her first shot, she registered with her Emirates ID and was given a manual for the procedure. She was then taken to a doctor to explain the process and was asked about her medical background.

After receiving her first dose of the vaccine, she was under observation for the first 30 minutes to see any immediate effects. She was also provided a Vaccination Diary Card where she will log her temperature, as well as check if she develops skin rashes, respiratory or general symptoms.

The nurse, she said, called her every day to check if there are changes or irregularities in her body.

"As of now, okay naman ako. Wala akong nararamdamang kakaiba. I feel healthy," added Lajara.

The Filipina also commended the UAE on this newest undertaking against the virus, and hopes that the world follows suit in order to finally kick the virus to the curb.

"The UAE government has never stopped progressing in its battle against this virus. With the World's First Phase III Clinical Trial Inactivated Vaccine in UAE, I hope the Philippines will follow soon. This mission is absolutely inspiring for other countries," she said.

Five challenges for COVID-19 vaccine

For so long, vaccines have saved millions of lives from deadly diseases that haunted humanity across centuries. Without this revolutionary shot, illnesses that we now see as common sicknesses or bugs would still be considered life-threatening.

Vaccines have taken the limelight again as the world tries to navigate the effect of coronavirus disease (COVID-19). This new invisible foe has already infected millions of people, killing hundreds of thousands of lives across the globe, and eradicating businesses and jobs worldwide. The need to develop an efficient vaccine is clearly the need of the hour.

While countries and companies have been racing to find the best vaccine, experts admit that there are many challenges that could hamper its development. Here are a few:

1 IT MAY ONLY PROVIDE BRIEF PROTECTION

In an analysis report released by Bloomberg Businessweek, experts have warned that the new vaccine currently under development may only provide temporary protection—like the annual influenza shot—unlike those that eradicated polio and measles.

2 CHALLENGE FOR POOR PEOPLE

The poor are without a doubt the most affected people in the world by the pandemic. Some are afraid that vaccines that require multiple doses will be hard to administer in developing and poor countries—not to mention, unaffordable for families below the poverty line.

3 BAD SIDE EFFECTS

There is also the risk of side effects, which can bring more harm than good. Vaccines that have been seemingly rushed may kill or affect some faculties of their bodies beyond repair. For old people, who are among the most vulnerable, experts say they may not be able to handle big doses.

4 VACCINE NATIONALISM

Nationalism is deadly, even in vaccine developments. Countries that are trying to develop COVID-19 vaccine may prioritize their people first rather than cooperating with other nations to look for a faster and better solution that will benefit everyone.

5 ANTI-VAXXERS

Of course, there is still the army of anti-vaxxers who continuously refuse to get themselves or their children vaccinated. Their ideologies may put a dampen on the fight of the world against COVID-19.

Filipino frontliner couple from Al Ain among UAE's COVID-19 vaccine volunteers

By Neil Bie

Two Filipino nurses in the UAE have joined the country's mission to find a COVID-19 vaccine by registering as volunteers for the ongoing Phase III trials in Abu Dhabi.

Rogelio Panganiban works as an Emergency Medical Technician at UAE's National Ambulance, while his wife, Purple Jade, works as a nurse at a government hospital in Al Ain at Tawam Hospital.

Both Rogelio and Purple Jade Panganiban had their first shot of the vaccine last August 6.

"When we arrived in ADNEC sobrang daming volunteer kaya inabot kami ng 6 hours, ganun kadami ang volunteers, different nationalities...majority nga locals dito, almost 70% so at the back of my head just to calm my nerves, ah ok this should be safe kasi hindi naman mgvovolunteer ang mga taga rito if unsafe," recalled Rogelio.

They stated that they didn't feel any of the anticipated symptoms immediately, or even days after they got their first shot.

"Honestly wala kaming naramdaman after the shot, it's very light, kahit local reaction wala talaga, mas heavy and painful pa ang flu vaccine," revealed Rogelio.

Rogelio praised his wife's courage to take part in the vaccine trials as well as a medical frontliner against the UAE's battle against COVID-19.

"I was hesitant when my wife told me that she also want to get the shot, I was afraid because I dont want my wife to be sick – kung ako lang it's fine pero she insisted and she was not afraid. Sabi niya why be afraid now kung ilang beses na siyang nagduty sa Covid Ward. So we decided to join, of course praying that sana this is it. Sana ito na ung vaccine na makakatulong sa mga tao pag naging succesful after Phase III," said Rogelio.

He hopes that their fellow frontliners keep up the fight, stating that Filipino nurses have a unique and genuine care that spreads positivity.

He also thanked the UAE government for giving them the chance not only to serve as frontliners, but to also give back to the country that has provided for them through the years.

"To our second home, UAE, we are beyond grateful sa opportunity na binigay sa amin.. na they offered the vaccine trial not only for their citizens but for all residents here willing to help, it just shows the enthusiasm and fairness of the UAE government for all, which relates to their campaign line "A Shot 4 Humanity". We feel safe and taken care here in UAE, Thank you from the bottom of our hearts," said Rogelio.

and align both government and non-government agencies related to drive the cause to combat and anticipate the spread of viruses.

Health minister Al Owais assured the public that MOHAP will provide all resources necessary for the UAE to achieve the desired outcomes from the newly-launched policy. Proper coordination with health authorities of each emirate will help the entire country in its planning and implementation of immunization services that could serve as a model for other countries to emulate on the application of vaccines.

Pfizer presents COVID-19 vaccine proposal for Philippines

By Staff Report

International pharmaceutical company Pfizer is currently in talks with the Philippine government to help the country secure doses of the vaccine against the coronavirus disease (COVID-19).

Department of Health (DOH) Undersecretary Maria Rosario Vergeire stated that top officials from the pharmaceutical giant presented their proposal during a meeting with Health Secretary Francisco Duque III together with the Department of Science and Technology Secretary Fortunato de la Peña on September 4.

"The Philippines, through the Secretary of Health and the Secretary of the Department of Science and Technology, talked with them regarding this. There will be an initial review... So we don't have a final agreement yet with Pfizer," said Vergeire during a virtual press briefing.

Apart from Pfizer, several representatives from the DOH also met virtually with the Russian embassy in Manila to discuss an upcoming meeting between the government and Gamaleya Research Institute of Epidemiology and Microbiology, the developer of Moscow's candidate vaccine Sputnik V.

Russia was the first country in the world to approve a vaccine against the coronavirus, but has faced skepticisms and doubts since the vaccine had been approved by the Russian government prior to phase 3 trials.

Reports from the official Sputnik V website state that "post-registration clinical trials" began on August 24 involving more than 40,000 people in Russia.

Duterte: PH to buy cheapest COVID-19 vaccine due to scarce fund

President Rodrigo Duterte said the country may buy the cheapest vaccine available due to the government's scarce funds.

In a televised speech, the President said he is anticipating a coronavirus vaccine as early as September.

He believes that all vaccines will have the same effect.

"It's there. I think it's Moderna, it is a US company, I think they are ready by September. Sinovac, China is also ready," Duterte said.

"Kung sino magbigay ng mura dun tayo pupunta. We know we don't have much money, kung mahal masyado, we will go for the less expensive ones," he added.

The Bayanihan to Recover as One Act or BAYANIHAN 2 has allocated Php10 billion for vaccine procurement.

It also gave the go signal to the Health Department to purchase vaccines that have yet to undergo phase 4 trials or the post marketing surveillance stage.

The bill however assures that the vaccine should be recommended and approved by the World Health Organization.

Duterte earlier said the Philippine government will shoulder the vaccine for Filipinos. He also thanked Russia for its offer to provide COVID-19 vaccine.

Harry Roque in self quarantine after aide tests positive for COVID-19

Presidential Spokesperson Harry Roque announced that he is in self-isolation after one of his aides tested positive for COVID-19.

"I am on a self-imposed quarantine because one of my security aides tested positive for COVID-19 on September 5," Roque said.

Roque however clarified that the aide is only in charge of his vehicle and the media people who went with him do not need to go on quarantine.

Roque visited Pasay City last weekend to check on the city's COVID-19 efforts. Roque is the assigned 'big brother' by the IATF in the city.

He also said that he tested negative for the virus.

Children could carry COVID-19 for longer periods – US study

By Staff Report

A new study in the US has theorized that coronavirus disease (COVID-19) in children stays longer than adults, South China Morning Post reported.

According to the research conducted by Children’s National Hospital in Washington on 60 children tested for COVID-19, it showed that the average time it took for them to test negative was 25 days—a figure that is longer than previous estimates, which Chinese researchers said is only 18 days. For adults, worldwide studies suggest the median time to testing negative is around 20 days.

In addition, one of the kids in the hospital was found to have tested negative only 62 days after being infected.

“The takeaway here is that we can’t let our guard down,” said Burak Bahar, lead author of the study said in a statement.

In addition, researchers theorized that it will take 36 days for children to build up enough antibodies to fight COVID-19. However, half of those did not achieve such during the period of infection.

“With most viruses, when you start to detect antibodies, you won’t detect the virus anymore. But with Covid-19, we’re seeing both. This means children still have the potential to transmit the virus even if antibodies are detected,” Bahar added.

The researchers also noted that much is still unknown and yet to be studied about COVID-19 and its effect on children.

Russia’s COVID-19 vaccine ‘Sputnik V’ shows strong immune response among participants

By Staff Report

Russian vaccine ‘Sputnik V’ against the coronavirus disease (COVID-19) has shown to provide a strong immune response for all of its 76 participants during the Phase I and II trials, according to results published in the international medical journal, The Lancet.

Among the participants of the third phase of the trials is the daughter of Russian President Vladimir Putin. “She feels well, and the concentration of antibodies is high. The main thing is to ensure the unconditional safety and effectiveness of this vaccine in the future,” said Putin.

However, international experts remain cautious regarding the vaccine, stating that only a large-scale clinical trial would prove if the vaccine really was effective.

“Immune response might not be directly proportional to the degree of protection—you can only find this out in large-scale trials”, explains Peter Openshaw, professor of experimental medicine at Imperial College London (London, UK) as per reports from The Lancet.

Sputnik V, named after Russia’s successful Soviet-era space program, is expected to begin mass production this September 2020. The country aims to provide 500 million doses of Sputnik V per year. The vaccine is being funded by the Russian Direct Investment Fund (RDIF), the country’s sovereign wealth fund.

RDIF Chief Executive Officer Kirill Dmitriev rebuffed Sputnik V critics of questioning the safety of the vaccine.

“Instead of looking into the science behind the proven adenoviral vector-based vaccine platform Russia has developed, some international politicians and media chose to focus on politics and attempts to undermine the credibility of the Russian vaccine,” said Dmitriev.

Steroids decrease death rate among severe COVID-19 cases – study

Corticosteroid drugs reduce risk of death from coronavirus disease (COVID-19) by 20 percent, according to various international trials from researchers around the world.

In a report by Reuters, analysis of seven international trials from Britain, Brazil, Canada, China, France, Spain and the US found that these drugs improve survival rates of critically ill COVID-19 patients. This has prompted the World Health Organization to update its recommendation regarding the treatment.

“This is equivalent to around 68 percent of (the sickest Covid-19) patients surviving after treatment with corticosteroids, compared to around 60 percent surviving in the absence of corticosteroids,” the researchers said in a statement.

Janet Diaz, WHO’s clinical care lead, said the organization has updated its advice on treatment, recommending steroids for severe COVID-19 cases.

“The evidence shows that if you give corticosteroids, (there are) 87 fewer deaths per 1,000 patients,” she said in a live streaming event.

The organization’s updated guidance said corticosteroids should only be used in critical cases, and not in mild cases as these could bring more harm to them than good.

Cemetery in Indonesia running out of space due to increased COVID-19 burials

By Staff Report

A cemetery in Jakarta, Indonesia is reaching full capacity as the number of burials due to coronavirus disease (COVID-19) continues to increase in the country, The Jakarta Post reported.

East Jakarta’s Pondok Ronggon cemetery said that only 1,100 burial spaces are left in its area spanning 7,000 square meters.

“The capacity is likely to be critical in mid-October,” cemetery’s management officer Mr Nadi was quoted Kompas.com as saying.

He added that by October, they may only be able to accommodate about 380 to 400 bodies—a lower figure compared to their average number of 700 bodies buried in a month.

Nadi said that in August, they buried about 27 bodies a day due to COVID-19.

“August 31 set a record, with 36

bodies buried that day, the highest number ever since I was put in charge in March,” he stressed.

He also admitted that they still have not yet come up with a plan regarding reaching full capacity by October, and only hopes that the COVID-19 cases and death toll would reduce so there would be fewer bodies to bury.

Since Pondok Ronggon was established as a COVID-19 burial location in March, The Jakarta Post reported that it has buried 2,623 bodies of people who died from the disease.

Bayat Legal Services to provide pro Bono legal advice for OFWs planning to migrate to Canada as skilled migrants

Many Filipinos in the UAE have thought of migrating to a country where they can both earn a living and attain a permanent residency leading to citizenship.

One of the top countries that always come to mind amongst OFWs is Canada - with their endless benefits as citizens and residents. However, many OFWs have doubts lingering if they are even qualified or eligible to migrate to another country.

Equipped with almost three decades of providing migration assistance, Bayat Legal Services, previously Canada Legal Services, located at 23rd Floor, Al Moosa Tower II, Trade Centre area, Sheikh Zayed Road in Dubai, will be giving pro bono or free legal advice to OFWs who are planning to migrate to Canada as skilled workers.

"The idea is simple: we want to empower people to make the right decision for their future and in the meantime saving them by hiring unnecessary service providers and spending their hard earned savings. We have stood strong in the industry as experts and we would like to ensure that you pick the right country as your new home," said Sam Bayat founder and owner of Bayat Legal Services.

FILIPINO-FOCUSED ADVICE

Amongst the individuals that Filipinos' can seek help from at Bayat Legal Services is Maricar Marquez, an immigration case processor who has witnessed the plight of her fellow Filipino expats who have wished to migrate towards Canada.

"His plan and vision is to offer free legal advice to people interested in partaking in Canada immigration program as skilled applicants. Mr. Bayat set it up where people can come and consult with specialists. I was ecstatic and inspired, eager to be part of this exciting initiative. I know in my heart that this is my calling. Right from the start I saw his vision and his intentions to give back to the community. This is a way to help people mold their stepping stone and aspire their dreams to migrate to Canada," said Marquez.

She ensures that each and every Filipino who will be visiting the Bayat Legal Services office in Dubai will be provided with a focused, one-on-one consultation where they will be given free assessment, guidance, and legal advice regarding Canada's federal skilled-worker program.

Filipinos can also learn and get guidance on the requirements such as an educational assessment credential application, language proficiency test and more.

"With my years of experience in the immigration service industry, I have observed several clients' application journey and witnessed them promised with false hopes. In my opinion this scheme says a lot about Mr. Bayat's agenda in this ball game. He wants nothing more than give people the real help they need, with nothing in return. This is a real game changer to the immigration consultancy industry, brings me great joy to be a part of it," said Marquez.

HEART OF SERVICE

Sam Bayat assures Filipinos that once they enter the premises of Bayat Legal Service, they will leave the doors with a more informed mindset as they begin their next plans on migrating towards a country where they can spend the rest of their life together with their loved ones.

"We have already hired specialists who will be assisting me. With prior reservation and based on certain criteria's, we shall maintain an open-door policy where you can come, ask us questions and we'll provide you with computers, Internet and all necessary tools needed to file your online application. My team and I will supervise you as you're filling up the forms and will be by your side to answer any questions or concerns," said Bayat.

Banking on over 27 years of experience since 1993, Filipinos are assured that they will only get professional advice that they need in order to ensure that they will fulfill their dream of heading towards Canada.

"We at Bayat Group, are always ahead, leading the industry with our knowledge and business expertise insuring our clients receive personal, prompt, and high-quality solutions/proposal to full fill their individual, family and business needs. Clients new or old may take confidence knowing that they will receive the upmost professional consultancy and legal service, as a matter of tradition," assured Bayat.

3-year-old girl swept away by large kite due to strong wind

By Staff Report

Taiwan News

A three-year-old girl was swept away by a kite to the sky following a violent gust of wind at Hsinchu's Nanliao Harbor in Taiwan.

The incident took place during the kick-off event of the 2020 International Kite Festival.

The northwestern city is also famous for its high winds.

A gust suddenly sent a kite flying, but it pulled the girl into the sky, much to the attendees' surprise.

The girl swung violently into the air for several seconds before she was pulled back to the ground.

A group managed to bring down the girl when she fell, and the crown started shouting.

The girl sustained minor injuries and scratches. She was immediately brought to the nearest hospital.

The city council has decided to cancel the event after the traumatic incident.

"The city government team offers its sincere apology to the victim and the public," Mayor Lin Chih-chien said on Facebook.

The organizers said that the kite was supposed to fly to the sky carrying candies for the kids and children were usually at a safe distance.

Pinoy captain of missing cargo ship in Japan due to come home to meet 4-month-old son for the first time

By Staff Report

Facebook photo

Marielle Chunanon, the partner of the ship captain of the missing cargo ship in Japan, revealed to Reuters some of their last conversations before they went off radar on Wednesday.

Her partner Dante Addug was the captain Gulf Livestock 1 that reportedly sank in Southern Japan due to Typhoon Maysak.

The couple has four children and Addug was set to come home next month to meet his 4-month-old son for the first time.

According to the report, Addug informed his partner that the typhoon has intensified and caused the ship's engine to fail.

"The typhoon is so strong up to now. Here I am praying for the typhoon to stop," Addug told Chunanon in a text message.

The ship was bound for China with at least 43 crew members on board—39 of them are Filipinos. Chunanon said that she learned about the ship's fate from posts of other crew members' family.

"My body was trembling that time," she said. "Even if they lose internet connection, he finds a way to message me. I'm getting nervous while the time is running out," she told Reuters.

The Department of Foreign Affairs announced that the Japanese Coast Guard has temporarily suspended its search and rescue operations for the missing cargo ship in Southern Japan.

"The Department of Foreign Affairs (DFA), through the Philippine Embassy in Tokyo and the Philippine Consulate General in Osaka, reports that in light of the expected arrival of Typhoon 10 in Japan, the Japanese Coast Guard has temporarily suspended its search and rescue operations," the department said in its statement.

The DFA added that the two Filipino survivors have been in contact with their respective families.

Filipina widowed from Abu Dhabi blast hopes husband's remains reach PH, seeks support for children's education

The wife of Clark Gasis, the Filipino who died in the recent explosion from Abu Dhabi this week, hopes to head back to the Philippines just to bring her husband's remains home.

"Gusto ko po sanang umuwi muna para maihatid nang buo ang labi ng asawa ko," said Elna.

Now a widowed mother of two, she also wishes to find ways so that the government may help her kids begin their studies after she brings her husband's remains to the Philippines.

"Yun sana hiling ko kung kaya nilang suportahan yung mga anak sa pag-aaral nila," added Elna.

Dhabi gas explosion—DOLE

The incident that took place in Abu Dhabi last August 31 took the lives of two Filipinos and injured 28 expats from different nationalities, including 10 Filipinos – two of which were children, according to reports from the Department of Labor and Employment (DOLE).

Earlier, Labor Secretary Silvestre Bello III assured families of both Filipino victims that they will each receive PHP120,000 bereavement assistance.

"They will also get insurance benefits if they are qualified members of the Overseas Workers Welfare Administration (OWWA)," he furthered.

Sister of OFW killed in Abu Dhabi blast: Sabi mo magsa-sama pa tayo sa Dubai?

By Staff Report

The Filipina who was killed in Abu Dhabi gas leak explosion last week had so many plans for her family, according to her sister in the Philippines.

In an interview with the Filipino Times, Rachel Bartoces said that her family is still in denial about the untimely death of their eldest sister Merinner, 25.

"Iniwan mo na ako. Iniwan mo na kami. Sabi mo kukunin mo ako para makapagtrabaho din sa Dubai," Rachel said in grief.

She recounted that Merinner recently asked her to process her passport.

"Pinapaasikaso mo lang akin 'yung passport ko nung kailan. Ngayon, ito naman ang nangyari? Nalilito na ako," she said.

"Wala na akong magagawa kasi nangyari na ito. Pero ang hirap matanggap," she said.

"Sana patuloy mo kaming gabayan kung saan ka man papunta. Salamat sa lahat, brader. Wala kang katulad. Salamat talaga at pag-intindi sa sitwasyon ko. Salamat sa lahat talaga," Rachel added.

She also wanted to migrate to Canada and bring her entire family there once settled.

"Ang dami niyang pangarap para sa amin kaso ngayon nawala naman siya," Rachel said.

Student builds a Game Boy out of a watermelon

A student in Singapore has been recently drawing public attention for playing his customized Game Boy, which he built out of a fresh watermelon.

In his YouTube vlog, Cedrick Tan explained how he housed a playable Game Boy Advance—which he calls MelonBoy—inside a hollowed-out watermelon, and played it in public transportation and stores to the amusement and stupefaction of fellow passengers and residents. Tan, a Business Analytics and Marketing major, told AsiaOne that the idea started off as a joke with his friends and family.

explained how he housed a playable Game Boy Advance—which he calls MelonBoy—inside a hollowed-out watermelon, and played it in public transportation and

"It started off as a joke that I was telling friends and family — it just seemed like something really funny to bring about in public and the icing on the cake would be that its green! When it came down to actually making the Melonboy, it happened to be really convenient seeing as the melon was very spacious on the inside allowing me to wire everything up with ease," he told AsiaOne.

The student said he completed the experiment in a month, and that he had to learn from scratch because he doesn't have a background in electrical engineering.

Malacañang: Nothing wrong with police monitoring violators on social media

By Staff Report

Presidential Spokesperson Harry Roque said Malacañang sees nothing wrong with police officers monitoring social media to spot possible quarantine violations like parties and drinking sessions, Philippine News Agency reported.

In a virtual press briefing, Roque said he does not see the decision of the Joint Task Force COVID Shield as an intrusion of people's privacy because it is not prohibited under the Cybercrime Prevention Act of 2012.

"Well, alam niyo po yung Cybercrime Act natin, nakasaad po dun ang mga pinagbabawal. Hindi naman po pinagbabawal ang social media monitoring," he said.

He added that police commanders will only be monitoring social media posts which are made public.

"Wala pong mali doon sa ginagawa ng pulis kung tinitignan lang nila kung ano yung mga naka-post sa social media. So yung pagmo-monitor po hindi po 'yan illegal. I don't think there's anything wrong with that," he said.

According to Roque, people waive their right to privacy the moment they post on social media.

Philippine News Agency reported that Integrated Bar of the Philippines president Domingo Egon Cayosa said that police have the power to check social media posts since they are in the "public domain."

However, the report added that human rights groups have criticized the task force's plan to monitor social media, saying it's a violation of people's privacy.

UAE-based Filipinos react to bill that pushes for OFW exemption from paying PhilHealth premiums

By Jamille Domingo

Many Overseas Filipino Workers (OFW) based in the UAE agree that they should not be mandated to pay the premiums of Philippine Health Insurance Corporation (PhilHealth), supporting the bill that aims to exempt them from the agency's compulsory contributions.

Recently, Albay Representative Joey Salceda filed a bill seeking to reform PhilHealth through the "PhilHealth Reform Act of 2020" (HB 7578). Under this, there will be a revamp in the embattled organization to ensure that the Universal Healthcare Law will be funded and get rid of corruption activities.

Salceda also pushes for the exemption of overseas Filipino workers (OFWs) to pay PhilHealth premiums, saying that they are not earning in the Philippines and there is no direct benefit from the agency.

In the straw poll conducted by The Filipino Times based on social media reactions, about 58 percent of netizens said it is unfair that they are obliged to pay the premiums especially since they have not directly benefitted from it, and also because they feel discouraged due to the widespread corruption allegedly happening inside the agency.

"OFWs must not need to give [payment] unless this will go to the family itself!!!! Kaysa naman magbabayad silang kahit ilang percent pa, hindi naman sila ang gagamit!!!!" said April Sevillo.

Many OFW netizens also expressed frustration about the law that mandates them to regularly contribute to PhilHealth before they can get their overseas employment certificate (OEC)—an exit pass issued by Philippine Overseas Employment Administration (POEA) that needs to be presented to the immigration officer at the airport of exit in the Philippines.

"Dapat 'di yan required sa pagkuha ng OEC, kung sino lang may gusto, magbayad sila. Pag ayaw, 'di huwag," said netizen Cristina Mendoza.

UNREASONABLE AMOUNT

Mendoza, along with many other OFWs, also said that the requirement to remit 3 percent of their annual salaries to PhilHealth is also unreasonable.

"Sobrang taas monthly, may nalalaman pang 3% at 5% sa sahod. 'Di po pinupulot ang pera sa abroad at 'di lahat maayos ang trabaho iba tiis na lang," she said.

Lenegin D. Agustin, meanwhile, said that it's unfair for them to increase their contributions, especially now that their salaries have been reduced due to the pandemic.

"Huwag na sanang taasan pa kasi [ang PhilHealth contribution kasi] marami kaming mga OFW dito sa Middle East na hindi kalakihan ang sahod, lalo na ngayong pandemic reduced pa sahod namin," she said.

OFW Arjie Butial also stressed that while he is willing to pay, the unreasonable amount and the corruption issues discourage him from contributing.

'Mas mabuti pa tumahimik ka na': Lolit takes a swipe at BB Gandanghari over revelation involving 'Piolo'

By Staff Report

Talent manager and entertainment columnist Manay Lolit Solis has taken a swipe at BB Gandanghari about her recent revelation that her former self, Rostum Padilla, had a "romantic affair" with a famous actor he named "Jonathan".

To recall, BB Gandanghari, who is now based in the US, claimed in one of her recent vlogs that Rostum and Jonathan's affair began in San Francisco for their stage play titled "Kristo" in 2001 with Piolo Pascual, Judy Ann Santos, Mat Ranillo III, Alice Dixson and Rossana Roces.

BB Gandanghari however interchanged the use of the pseudonym "Jonathan" and Piolo. It was not clear if she was referring to actor Piolo Pascual.

She claimed that Rostum and Jonathan kissed. "It was probably the most felt kiss.

It was deep, it was passionate, but it was also more than that. May feeling, eh. But, it ended there when they realized may mga tao sa baba. They stopped, and then bumaba na si Rostum," BB said.

This revelation, however, did not sit well with several columnists including Solis.

In an Instagram post, Solis said in parts: "Parang hindi naman maganda timing ng mga reveal niya at parang bitter lang siya sa buhay kaya panay ang mga pasabog niya.

"Wala ng relevance ang mga sinasabi niyang throwback story sa buhay ni Rostum Padilla na para bang napakatagal ng panahon naganap kaya hindi na gaanong pansin pa ng mga tao sa ngayon.

"Ang nakakainis nga marami pa ang nadadamay na pangalan dahil blind item nga ang style ng kanyang pagbu bulgar.

The camp of Piolo Pascual is still mum about BB Gandanghari's claim.

Lloyd Cadena wished his UAE-based OFW father could stay home for good

By Staff Report

YouTube sensation Lloyd Cadena had been very vocal on how much he wanted his parents who are both working as Overseas Filipino Workers (OFWs) in the UAE to settle home for good.

This is perhaps one of the reasons why the late YouTube star has become a household name among OFWs.

First, he was able to get his wish for his mother, but he was not able to do the same for his father, who works in Abu Dhabi.

In one of his vlogs last year, Lloyd shared the difficulties of being a child of an OFW.

He said how he wished his father would decide to finally settle home for good after working abroad for so many years. "Dapat mag for good ka na kasi, Pa," Cadena told his father Jun while they were on their way to the airport last August 2019—almost a year ago before his untimely passing on September 4.

He also shared the hardships they had to go through every time their parents leave them to work abroad.

"Ganito talaga ang malungkot na buhay ng OFW yung ihatid mo yung mahal sa buhay sa airport," he said.

Cadena died after he tested positive for COVID-19 and had suffered a fatal heart attack.

'Inosente ako': Gladys Guevarra's BF breaks silence, denies stealing money from her

The ex-boyfriend of singer and comedienne Gladys Guevarra has finally addressed the accusations against him.

To recall, the comedienne took to Facebook live video accusing Leon Sumagui of taking away her money from her online food business.

In a 12-minute Youtube video, Sumagui said that he has no intentions of hiding or running away from Guevarra. He said that he is constantly in touch with the singer's cousin and brother on issues involving money.

"Hindi ko naman inakala na aabot sa eskandalo ito. Akala ko mareresolve ito sa pag-uusap lang," he said.

Sumagui then answered all the points and issues raised by Guevarra on her video.

He said that the money paid for the orders on September 3 which Gladys claimed was missing has already been remitted to her.

Sumagui said that he already coordinated with the singer's brother in all the transactions that need to be settled.

He also denied ransacking their office and deleting important files for the food business.

"Wala po ako sinira o binura.

Nagmamadali akong umalis noon and baka may nahila lang sa power cord ng computer pero maayos yun," he added.

Sumagui also defended his reasons why he chose not to speak with Guevarra anymore.

"Mahirap po na tuwing nag uusap kayo laging may nakatutok na kutsilyo sayo," he said.

He also said that he was committed to her when they together and had no other women, as the comedienne claimed.

He denied the gold-digging claims and said that he never asked money from Guevarra.

"Iyong kotse ko na 2007 model binenta ko para mabili yung iPhone 11 na gusto niya. Ngayon bumili ako ng lumang kotse para may magamit ako, sabihin niyo sino ngayon mukhang pera," he said.

In the end, Sumagui said that he will not say anything bad to discredit Guevarra. "Hindi ko siya sasaktan pero napakahirap niyang mahalina," Sumagui ended.

Sumagui used to work as a dance and later on became a social media producer for a defunct GMA variety show, that's when the two of them met.

Liza Soberano hits back at netizen calling her 'boba'

Kapamilya actress Liza Soberano did not mince words after a basher insulted her when she expressed her opinion on President Rodrigo Duterte's decision to grant pardon to convicted killer US Marine Lance Corporal Joseph Scott Pemberton.

"So a murder[er] was just released for good conduct. Are we supposed to just forget that he killed Jennifer Laude because he's done some good," she said in a tweet.

A netizen then reacted on Soberano's comment.

"Ang boba pala ng babaeng ito. Now naniwala na talaga akong acting lang [yong] kunwaring matalino [siya]," the netizen said.

The netizen added that Soberano should not meddle on political issues.

"Stick to your craft girl. Huwag masyadong pahalata na wala kang alam sa basic comprehension on laws & current events," the netizen said.

Liza sarcastically responded on the tweet.

"Ouch ang sakit nasaktan ako," she said.

Apart from Soberano, Miss Universe 2015 Pia Wurtzbach also shared her thoughts on the issue.
